The problem of the conference:

The identity of any society is essentially linked to the historical stages of wars, conflicts, colonialism and dependency, as well as independence, renaissance, elevation, and conquest. Algerian society, like most societies, has been subjected to multiple colonialism, which has left a number of fingerprints on its civilizational, cultural and values trajectory.

Openness to communication technology as well as the rapid industrial and economic development that brought Algeria into the labyrinth of alignment, conservatism and closure, has affected the social structure and society in its various categories, where many new social phenomena have affected the society in one way or another, which has failed to keep pace with the various crises.

Perhaps the youth group, the most aligned with globalization and technology, has made it more aware of the characteristics of developed societies, and more urgent to present its problems and needs for psychosocial well-being. In order to understand and clarify the current situation of Algerian youth came to address the problem of the conference as follows: How can social psychologies to explain the current issues of youth in Algeria, and addressed on the ground?
